

Dear Ellwood House tenants, neighbours and friends,

You might be wondering what's going on with the Ellwood House Extension project. The winter weather makes it feel as if everything has slowed down and, indeed, the wheels are moving more slowly than we had thought they would.

We had anticipated that, by January, a security fence would be erected around the former rectory property and the demolition of the old house would be under way. Rest assured that those things will gradually start to happen once multi-party agreements have been finalized and capital funding for construction begins to flow. But we can't forecast how soon that will be.

We appreciate your continued interest and patience. And we thank those who are working diligently on the project. We will provide email and social media updates on the project as new information becomes available.

Kind regards.

The Ellwood House Board of Directors
